local house music DJs to give up their time free of charge to raise funds for Magpas.

The varied line up also included the main man from back in the day international DJ & producer Lot 49 Records Lee Coombs. Lee made the journey from his Orlando home especially to play at the event. Tim & Frank decided to support Magpas as it provides a major service to friends, family & associates in times of emergency.

Another major contributor to the night was the Cambridge Golf & Conference Centre, who let Ozone Breakdown use the facilities free of charge for the evening. Owners Peter & Theresa also donated £500 from the bar takings from the night, as well as a raffle prize of a meal for 2 in the Abbots Restaurant.

The Ozone Breakdown experience has been going for little over a year and the thinking behind them was to merge the music, attitude and feelings of the early to mid 90's house music scene with the freshness and funk of modern day. Ozone promoters Tim and Frank would like to thank Pete and Theresa of The Cambridge Golf & Conference Centre for loan of the amazing venue.

They would especially like to thank Lee Coombs, Gary Stewart, Dave Bradshaw Smith, Brian De'Ath, Stu Fisher, Mark Jabri, Jay Hansel and Jay Webb and also everyone who turned up to raise money and also as usual create a jumpin' nite.

Magpas Fundraiser, Debbie Florence said, "It was a great night and we are very grateful to everyone who was involved in organising this event for Magpas. The funds will go towards saving lives around the region with our Community First Responders and the Magpas Emergency Medical Team that flies on Anglia Two, the East Anglian Air Ambulance's helicopter."
